

Alaska

Unique Employment Opportunities

Speech Therapists

School Psychologists

Physical Therapists

Occupational Therapists

SERRC Alaska's Educational Resource Center

Providing educational services and solutions to school districts and communities throughout The Last Frontier since 1976

Join the Team!

Most American educators drive to work or maybe take a bus to their schools. But, here in Alaska, things are different.

To deliver special education related services to rural Alaska, SERRC's Special Education Team travels the state by air (jet, float, and prop planes), boat, snow machine, and – if need be – by dog sled to provide the children of Alaska with the best possible programs and services.

itinerant, adj.
traveling from place to place to perform work.

Requirements

A masters degree and current licensing and/or certification requirements in Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, School Psychology or Speech Therapy.

The Job

SERRC's Itinerant Special Education Related Service providers deliver services to school districts located in rural and rural-remote Alaska. While Alaska's three major cities may be indecipherable from small urban clusters in other states, "bush" Alaska is unlike any town or village in the lower 48. In fact, many residents live a subsistence or semi-subsistence lifestyle. Due to the lack of roads, travel in and out of "bush" Alaska is limited to air travel in small planes.

All SERRC itinerants are expected to perform evaluations for special education eligibility as well as assisting with the implementation of services.

Itinerant responsibilities also include:

- ★ Accurately assessing student's needs, performance and abilities;
- ★ Preparing comprehensive reports including the recommendation for eligibility according to Alaska Special Education Handbook, summary of evaluation results, recommended activities to teachers and parents, and suggested IEP goals and objectives;
- ★ Prescribing programs that allow students to reach their goals in a timely manner;
- ★ Serving as a member of an IEP team;
- ★ Providing recommendations to school districts and parents;
- ★ Training on-site staff to deliver and monitor student programs;
- ★ Advising educators of laws and regulations related to the special education program; and
- ★ Modeling positive team leadership at all times.

SERRC – Alaska's Educational Resource Center – is the state's largest provider of contractual Special Education services.

The Culture

Alaska is home to many different ethnic groups, including Alaska Natives. With more than eleven distinct cultures and 20 different languages, there is no one Alaska Native Culture. Alaska Natives make up about 16% of the state's total population.

Along with Alaska's first people, America's far north is also comprised of other ethnic groups – all of which have their own language and culture.

In Alaska, almost each community hosts a unique combination of not only ethnic groups – but cultures and sub-cultures. From fishermen (and women) and loggers, to people who work in tourism and the oil industry, to large groups that live a subsistence lifestyle – Alaska is truly a world unto itself.

SERRC – Alaska’s Educational Resource Center – is an equal opportunity employer
and offers excellent salary/benefit packages. SERRC offers Special Education Related Service providers generous per diem and paid report time.
Alaska does not have a state income tax.

How to Apply

Apply online

www.serrc.org/employment or contact

Sheryl Weinberg at 907-586-6806,
907-463-3811 (fax)

Resumes

can be sent to:
Human Resources SERRC
210 Ferry Way
Juneau, Alaska 99801

SERRC ALASKA'S EDUCATIONAL RESOURCE CENTER

